The meeting started at 2.30pm (Yerevan time)

1. The link convener, Laurence Lasselle started the meeting by welcoming the participants. She thanked everyone for their hard work and support (EERA office, presenters, chairs, reviewers and conveners).
She reported that she has been impressed by the quality of the presentations and the interaction between presenters and participants in the sessions she attended. All shared the same experience.
2. She briefly reported on the ECER 2022 submission process. In terms of overall submissions, the Network continues to be successful. The Special Call and the 'family education and parenting' strand attracted many submissions. She regretted that
 - a. only two symposia (both in two parts) were submitted – both were accepted
 - b. all accepted alternative submissions (poster and ignite talks) were withdrawn.

All discussed their ECER2022 and ECER Plus experience. Among the positive points, the atmosphere in Yerevan and the amazing efforts of the EERA office and organisers, in particular the local organisers, and the impressive Whova platform and its potential.

3. Network news (see PPT slides 7 and 8)
4. We briefly discussed ECER2023 and the theme of the conference.
Laurence informed everyone that the Network Special Call has already been written and will be circulated to all subscribers of the Network mailing list.
5. Laurence invited the participants to continue their task as reviewers or to join the team of reviewers.
6. Laurence gave a brief outlook of the rest of the conference.

The meeting closed at 3.15pm.
