Comments: Very positive participation both onsite and online, with an increasing involvement of education and psychoanalysis oriented staffs in Germany, Austria and France (Vienna University, Humboldt University Berlin, Paris 8 University). The various communications have made it possible to highlight the diversity of currents working on the links between psychoanalysis and education. Research and publications projects have emerged from the exchanges.

Network 21 development

- Next goals will be to include more university teams or individuals in the network for next Ecer and/or for publication or research projects. The fact we've received a spontaneous request for collaboration from a colleague at Jena University just after the conference is encouraging.
- 1st translation of a German historical paper (P. Bühler) has been published in the Cliopsy journal, some more papers are in preparation, the next one could be a paper from G. Bittner.

- During the second NW 21 meeting (September 5), some decisions have been made:
 - Next Link- and Co-Convenors meeting: February 17th, 4 p.m. CET (online).
 - An invitation to participate in our network will be sent to colleagues at Frankfurt University.
 - A NW 21 Spring meeting will be held in Paris in April 2023 (about 12 participants).
 - A Special call emphasizing on psychoanalysis and education will be prepared for ECER 2023.
 - The possibility of a joint session with NW 5 'Children at Risk' or NW 19 'Ethnography' has to be explored for ECER 2023.
 - Participation of 4 colleagues from Vienna University, Humboldt University and Birkbeck University of London has been confirmed for the Cliopsy international congress, October 14-15 in Paris.
 - Updating of NW 21 has to be done asap.
